Annual Post-Graduate Conference

For post-graduates, by post-graduates.

Annually, the University of Queensland's School of Human Movement and Nutrition Sciences (HMNS) post-graduate executives organise and run an internal conference. This creates a platform for post-graduate students to showcase their work and share the latest research methodologies, findings, and practical implications. Delegates have the opportunity to hear from keynote speakers and attend networking events.

The HMNS Post-Graduate Conference has attendees from a diverse array of disciplines including: sport and exercise science, exercise physiology, exercise psychology, sports history and culture, motor control, dietetics, and biomechanics. We aim to have at least 20 presenters for our 2023 conference. This conference was previously awarded the "Best Post-Graduate Student Event of the Year" in 2018.
